

IUHPE News: 18th World Conference on Health Promotion and Health Education <http://www.health2004.com.au>

This year, the 18th World Conference is being held in Melbourne, Australia, April 26-30, 2004. The conference is auspiced by the International Union for Health Promotion and Education (IUHPE), based in Paris, and the conference will also host the triennial General Assembly of the IUHPE members.

The program is currently being developed, but conference sessions will cover the entire range of health promotion and health education issues, but most will be organized around the following streams:

cervical cancer screening	mental health
environment and urbanisation	multicultural health
globalisation and governance	partnerships
global program on health promotion	peace and health effectiveness	physical activity
health and trade	plenary sessions
health futures	policy forums
health promoting health care services	school health
health promotion theory	safety promotion/injury prevention
healthy ageing	skill building workshops
HIV/AIDS	skin cancer
indigenous health	tobacco control
local government	workforce development
meet the expert	workplace health
men's health	youth

Abstract Submission Period Closed

Over 2,500 abstract were received. Abstract submissions for the 18th World Conference on Health Promotion and Education have now closed. Notifications will be sent in late-January, 2004.

Online Registration and More Information

People may register online at the World Conference web site: <http://www.health2004.com.au>.

For other information about Health2004, please write to the appropriate address below:

General enquiries:	info@Health2004.com.au
Program:	program@Health2004.com.au
Sponsoring the conference:	sponsorship@Health2004.com.au
Exhibiting at the conference:	exhibition@Health2004.com.au

More Information About IUHPE

More information about the International Union for Health Promotion may be found at the web site: <http://www.iuhpe.org/>.