

The Way Home

Drunk again
on my way home
her face spins in car wheels as night turns to morning a light rain makes the air ripple I think it's her so I slide the bus window open stick my face out
and catch her
on my tongue.